Scott Loescher Interview with JD Welsh

JD Welsh

All right. Hey, first of all, I want to say thanks for coming on. I really appreciate it. You've had such a great career. Like once you put it on paper, a lot of times I just, I know guys and then I don't know them. You know what I mean? And that's kind of the case with you. I'm just looking at this thing and I'm like, wow, this is amazing. I'm really excited for you to fill in the holes that I don't know of your career and your life. So yeah, if you want to just go ahead and take over and tell me about your childhood and how that prompted you to join the military.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, absolutely. So I was a military brat. My dad was a tail gunner in B-52s during Vietnam. So he flew during the Linebacker missions in the early seventies. I remember we lived in Aurora and the Air Force base in Aurora had B-52s in Colorado, and I remember as a kid, going over and getting into the tail gunner seat during an air show or whatever. Yeah, and I got hooked. So grew up, went through high school and everything else. The plan was to go to college and then come into the Air Force as an officer. I had a full ride scholarship at a local community college in Kansas. And first semester, I pretty much drank that up.

JD Welsh

You'd be surprised at how many guys come on here and say that kind of thing. They try college and it just didn't work out for them.

Scott Loescher

And not literally — I went to my calculus class twice for tests and I got an A. So I was like, man, college is boring. So literally I drove into the local Air Force recruiter. I was like, I want the most exciting job that you have in the Air Force for an enlisted guy. And he goes, oh, we just got this thing. And he shows me this little blurb that was like five sentences: get to work with the Army, play with the explosives, call in close air support, blow stuff up. And I was like, ooh, sign me up. So I went on to delayed enlistment for 11 months. And yeah, came into the Air Force as guaranteed TACP.

So I went to basic training and then went to tech school, which was awesome. I went through with Brett Ramos, and we became like best friends at tech school. And then we both got orders to Fort Hood. So we lived in the barracks together and there were what, three and a half years for my first assignment. And in that time, before we went to Desert Shield/Desert Storm, Brett and I raised holy hell. I mean, we were the typical bad airmen. We would party all the time. We'd show up at the PT test hammered in the morning, and then both of us would run the fastest out of everybody in the squadron.

But yeah, my first EPR (Enlisted Performance Report) was a two. It was funny because it just switched over from the APR system to the EPR system. And our supervisor didn't know how to write EPRs, so it would have been a referral, right? But he didn't check that box. Back then you wrote a paragraph about the person, not bullet statements. And my paragraph on my first EPR basically said, "This airman is not compatible with service. Let him go as soon as possible." And

Sheet: 2

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

then we went to Desert Shield/Desert Storm, got deployed, and that's when I learned all about the job, really, because I got my first combat controls as an A1C (Airman First Class) right before Desert Storm, basically. Went with the First Cav, Second Brigade, Blackjack. And I was the bad Airman.

So I got put, not at a battalion, I got put with the brigade ALO (Air Liaison Officer) at the brigade TOC (Tactical Operations Center). And yeah, our brigade ALO was an F-4 back seater. Everybody called him the desert flower. That was not his call sign, but we called him the desert flower. The first time I really learned about how important this job was, was a week and a half before the ground war started. The air war was going on. I mean, we were sitting about 12 clicks south of the Iraqi border. You know the wadi system that goes between Kuwait and Iraq on the western side of Kuwait, eastern side of Iraq, south of Basra that goes down to Saudi Arabia — there's a wadi system there that delineates the border. And we did the big push out west, but the leadership wanted the Iraqis to think that we were gonna attack up that wadi system.

First War Story – Desert Storm

Scott Loescher

So First CAV got tasked with doing feints across the border a week and a half before the ground war started. We were going 20, 30 clicks inside Iraq with a very small force, making probes to give the Iraqis the sense that we were gonna go that direction. One day we went up with the brigade TOC, a platoon of M-1s, a scout platoon, and a Vulcan. And that was it. Alone and unafraid. We had on-call air support if we wanted it, but you had to coordinate it through the ABCCC. So I'm in my M-113. We go across the border, cruising along, and we come up this rise on the west side of the wadi. The tanks are down in the wadi itself, we've got the scout platoon in front of us, the Vulcan off to my left, and the brigade commander's M-1 and the Sergeant Major's M-113 next to me on the right.

So we get up there and there's a trench and like 20 Iraqis jump up to start shooting AK-47s at the Bradleys. And so the Bradleys opened up with 25 millimeter and dudes start disappearing as they get hit. I'm like, well, we're in the shit now. And so they all give up. And we had no guidance on what to do with EPWs (enemy prisoners of war). So we had nothing to put them in. There was no trucks, there was nothing like that. So the brigade commander is like flex cuff them and strap them with a cargo strap to the front of the Bradleys. There's like eight dudes strapped to the front of these Bradleys, right? We continue moving up this rise and the scout Bradleys had got to the top of the rise. We were just below the top of the rise, somewhat in defilade. And the Sergeant Major came on the radio and was like, why the hell has the Vulcan stopped? And I look over to the left and that Vulcan is sitting like 20 yards away from me. There's smoke, the back door is open about halfway and there's smoke coming out of the turret. Well, yeah, that can't be good.

Sergeant Major jumps out of his track, runs over there, and he comes out wearing MOPP gear with blood on him. And we're like, oh, holy shit. Well, it turns out that the Vulcan took a direct round from a 100 millimeter recoilless rifle. It hit the seam between the turret and the top of the M-113 and basically cut the gunner in half and the TC in half.

Sheet: 3

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

So that's when we realized, okay, now we're in a no-kidding direct fight. Like 30 seconds later, the world exploded and we started receiving artillery, a lot of artillery. Rounds are exploding all around us. We had the top of my track open and there's dirt flying in, shrapnel hitting the side of the track. When we got back, I had a piece of shrapnel about this long that had come through the side of my track and it was about that far from the back of the HF radio and the JRC-206 pilot. So anyway, I dropped down and I start filling out a paper 1972 (DD Form 1972 – Request for Close Air Support), because I'm like, we need CAS.

I've got my big map board hanging in the track and I'm filling this thing out and I get on the HF radio and I call it an immediate CAS request. And meanwhile, the ALO is trying to cover himself up with sandbags on the floor of the M-113, believe it or not. And he's crying. He's like, I didn't sign up for this shit! And so I get the ASOC (Air Support Operations Center) on the radio and send my 1972. And the weather was kind of crap. And they were like, well, are you under fire? And I said, stand by. And I clicked the handset and I held it up to the hatch. You hear that? That's freaking incoming fire on my position. And they were like, okay, stand by. So a buddy of mine sitting in the division, Angel Mendoza, heard me — him and Kyle Neal — and they called ABCCC up and sent me a four ship of A-10s.

So I filled out a paper 9-line (CAS brief). And I'm doing ECAS. I'm not ETAC (Enlisted Terminal Attack Controller) certified at that point. Back then it was very limited on how many enlisted guys got to be ETAC certified. So I filled out my paper 9-line, they checked in, I took their check in, I passed them a 9-line. I could see in the distance the artillery, the flashes from the artillery unit that's shooting at us. So I called it in and they came below the weather. I think the weather deck was probably about a thousand feet.

So I got a four ship of A-10s right behind me circling with Mavericks. The first guy that came right over the top of us, I cleared him hot and the Maverick came off the wing and flew like 300 feet above the track and went downrange and hit something. I don't know what it hit, but there was a huge mushroom cloud explosion. And then immediately the artillery stopped. And then the A-10s just went to town. I just cleared them at their discretion — you guys do what you need to do, go kill the enemy. And they just did it.

So we recovered. We had to blow up an M-1 that had run over an anti-tank mine and was disabled. We blew that up, blew up the Vulcan, grabbed all the wounded, and hauled ass back to Saudi Arabia. Back across the berm. So we got back. The brigade commander's got blood on his MOPP suit, Sergeant Major's there. And then I get out of the track and I smoke a cigarette with my crew. And the brigade commander comes over and he's like, who controlled the A-10s? And the major standing there, he's like, Airman Loescher did it. And he came over and he gave me a hug. He goes, you saved our asses today. And I was like, holy shit, this job is awesome.

JD Welsh

That is an amazing story, dude. You just did everything you're supposed to do. This bad Airman did everything by the book, 100% correct, and man you saved the day. That's awesome.

Scott Loescher

So my next EPR was a four because I couldn't go from a two to a five, right?

Sheet: 4

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

JD Welsh

That's so dumb.

Scott Loescher

The paragraph said, "This is the Airman you take to war."

JD Welsh

You know what though, it's funny, I found that there's a lot of guys like that. A lot of guys that when you get in garrison, I mean, Ramos, same way — you get these guys in garrison and you just don't know what to do with them. We don't know how to act. And then you put a guy like you downrange and that's where you need him, that's where you belong. Call them when a war's going so we can keep these Airmen off the streets.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, so we ended up coming back down, did the ground war. We went all the way out west and then came back in and ended up just outside of Ali Al Salem, which is important later. We went through the Highway of Death, all that stuff. I mean, we drove literally without stopping through two Republican Guard divisions and just decimated them. As fast as an M-113 can go, and the vehicles carrying the fuel and the ammo, but the tanks and the Apaches and everything were out in front of us, the Bradleys, and we never even slowed down. We just drove right through them. It was awesome.

JD Welsh

I don't think people realize what kind of a force that is — US armor and mechanized infantry. They just have no idea. It's an amazing thing.

Scott Loescher

Not even slowing down. The only time we stopped was to refuel. But yeah, that was Desert Storm week, it was awesome. I just remembered this — when we flew back, one of our guys, I can't remember his name. So we ended up at KKMC, King Khalid Military City, and we scammed airlift back to the states, because we were supposed to go back with the division but we'd pissed them off because the Sergeant Major wanted to do stupid shit when we were in Saudi Arabia, like formations and everything, and we were like, we're leaving. So we loaded up the whole brigade TACP on a C-5 and flew it to Florida. We get to Florida, and then they decide that they're gonna put us on a commercial flight back to Fort Hood. So we're in our chocolate chips, we still have our weapons and everything else, and we show up at the airport. We flew from England up to Atlanta and Atlanta back to Dallas and on down to Fort Hood.

JD Welsh

Did they give you any problems with having your weapons?

Scott Loescher

Sheet: 5

mixam the smart way to print

mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

So we're in Atlanta and they wouldn't let us on the plane because we had weapons. There was no TSA or anything like that. So we're walking through the airport in our uniforms with weapons, standing at the gate trying to get on an airplane, and the pilot walks up, he's like, did you guys just come back from Desert Storm? And we were like one of the first ones to come back since we scammed some airlift. And we're like, yes, sir. He's like, you guys get on my damn plane anytime. Let them on. So we got on the plane and they were giving us free drinks. By the time we got to Dallas, we're all hammered. So when we got back to Fort Hood, the news was there because we're the first from Fort Hood to make it back. And we're all hammered. Trying to interview us and yeah, they're like, none of this is usable, just forget it.

Germany

Scott Loescher

So life went back to normal. We're back at Fort Hood. Brett and I are doing good. And then the Air Force got smart. We both got orders, like the same day, he got orders to Hawaii and I got orders to Germany. And so they put us on opposite sides of the planet.

So I went to Germany and I went to a CAB unit, Combat Aviation Brigade, at Kotterbach. And so at that point I started dating my wife, she was in Kansas, I went home on leave, I met her, told her I was going to marry her. And then I went to Germany. So we get to Germany and I was like, okay, I got to get my shit together, I want to be an ETAC, right? So it's a six-man shop, so I put my nose to the grindstone and became ETAC certified. I had my initial evaluation at Grafenwoehr doing a live drop with Harriers, Apaches, and artillery. Yeah, a live drop for your first eval. Got that done, did good, I got an EQ (Exceptionally Qualified) on it. And then went to, what did they call it back then, joint fires?

JD Welsh

Oh, JFCC? Yeah.

Scott Loescher

That's it. Yeah, I went to JFCC (Joint Fires Control Course), got my training done, came back, good to go. So I became ETAC certified. And then one day I figured out that the Army had a correspondence course for Helo-FAC, right? And I'm with an aviation unit. So I took the correspondence course, took me a couple of days, passed, got my certificate, and then I took that over to the S3 and I said, I need to be on the schedule and go fly. And he's like, oh, you're Helo-FAC qualified. I said, I'm an ETAC, Helo-FAC qualified. So they, no kidding, right-seat qualified me on OH-58s.

JD Welsh

No way! That's awesome.

Scott Loescher

Sheet: 6

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

So I would go flying around Bavaria with a 1:50,000 map book. My job was to navigate but I learned how to help here and there. We'd do training missions down in Bavaria, have a couple of OH-58s, and I would just control air.

JD Welsh

That's really cool. Not a lot of guys have done that. I mean, I've heard of other guys doing that, but there's not a lot of JTACs that have been able to do that kind of thing.

Scott Loescher

Oh no, and right after I PCS'd out of Germany, the Air Force decided not to have TACP at the CAB (Combat Aviation Brigade) anymore. And so they moved them all over to the conventional units and took them out of all the aviation brigades. So there was only a small period of time where we had actual ETACs out of an aviation brigade doing the job.

JD Welsh

Yeah. So I'm just curious, I've always heard that it's a little challenging to be in a helicopter controlling CAS because when you're on the ground you know where North is all the time. Talk about that a little bit — what were your challenges to being a Helo-FAC as opposed to being a ground FAC?

Scott Loescher

Number one was navigation, right? Because you're doing 3D navigation now versus 2D. The good thing about navigating in Germany was if you did get lost, the pilot would just go hover next to the next town. Every town in Germany, when you go in and go out, has a sign that says what town it is. And so we'd be like, oh, you're in Flinklersdorf, right? I was like, oh, I got it from here, go this way. But when you're controlling, let's say you're in a hover, I would have them orient towards the target area and then orient myself going, okay, that way to my left is north. What was really hard to do was actually get eyes on airplanes. Especially when they were coming behind you from the IP, that was difficult.

JD Welsh

Yeah, because you're enclosed in that cockpit. Could he ever turn around if you needed him to?

Scott Loescher

If I knew the IP was behind me or if I was gonna have a view where I could not see the planes when they were on final, I would tell the pilot, hey, turn 90 degrees. And he would turn it 90 degrees. I'd look out the side. Okay, there they are. They're oriented, cleared hot.

Benning & Rangers

Scott Loescher

Sheet: 7

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

So after that I went to Benning. I was at Benning at the brigade there. Marty Klukas, all those dudes were there. And yeah, that was an experience being at the conventional unit with the Rangers, around 95 to 97. The conventional and Ranger TACPs were the same unit then. It was before it became an STS. You had one flight that was the conventional guys and one flight was the Ranger TACP, all in the same unit.

JD Welsh

What was the name of that compound?

Scott Loescher

Kelly Hill, and then we had another area by Harmony Church. Yeah, by Harmony Church.

JD Welsh

I did some time there, so I'm familiar with it.

Scott Loescher

And you know how we were like redheaded stepchildren, the TACPs were right? So the Army wouldn't give us anything. We had our compound out there and the conventional TACP was actually in a stolen single-wide trailer for our office.

JD Welsh

(laughs)

Scott Loescher

The floor was all spongy, the AC didn't work. We called in a work order and we figured out it was stolen because the AC stopped working. We called in the work order and they showed up six months later. So they come to fix our AC unit and the guy's like, I couldn't find this building number anywhere in our system. So yeah, no idea where the trailer came from, where the building number came from.

JD Welsh

So it probably wasn't even authorized. I heard about another story there.

Scott Loescher

I got the story behind the Crown Vic. So we had an awesome vehicle maintenance guy — that dude can do anything. And do you know Jerry Valentini?

JD Welsh

Sure, of course. He was the commander when I got there, he was still the commander.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, so he was the Ops Sup. J.O., John Owens was the commander, and Valentini was the Ops Sup. And freaking Valentini, because we had a shit vehicle and we'd have to drive to

Sheet: 8

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

Warner Robbins and everything, he told the vehicle maintenance guy, he goes, I don't care how you do it, but I want you to upgrade our blue fleet. So he went to the range at Concord.

JD Welsh

Concord! I was trying to think of the name of that range the other day. I couldn't remember Concord.

Scott Loescher

Oh, dude. That happens to me all the time. So he went to Concord and there was a six-pack Chevy truck, right? And he towed it back to the shop, put it in the vehicle bay, did all the body work, had it painted blue. And then we dropped a 350 motor in it. And then he went to Warner Robins and at night got a vehicle tag off of some other vehicle and brought it back and put it on ours. So yeah, he basically made a blue fleet vehicle that was awesome. Dual exhaust and everything. And the Crown Vic was the same way. It was just a piece of junk. The vehicle maintenance guy fixed it up, got a tag and put it on there and was like, yep, we got a blue fleet.

JD Welsh

You know, but that was kind of how you did stuff back then because that unit didn't get any money. I mean, frankly, back then, nobody got any money. You had to beg, borrow, steal everything you got. So it was either don't have a blue fleet or do something like that. That Crown Vic lasted, I can't remember what happened to it. I think somebody, eventually we became legitimate and had to follow some sort of standards and somebody QC'd it and was like, wait a minute, you can't have this car. But I think we ended up getting an actual blue fleet after that.

Korea – Osan

Scott Loescher

Yeah, that was crazy. We got 15-pax vans and all that. So after Benning I PCS'd to Korea to Osan. And I went to the 25th Fighter Squadron and I was a BALO trainer.

JD Welsh

Yeah, dude, you had some awesome assignments, man. That's great.

Scott Loescher

Yeah. If you ask Tim Pachesa, he was like, that dude has karma, right? Because I was the guy that took care of my dudes. I would take care of the mission, make sure everything was good. But I never asked for anything in return. And stuff would just kind of fall in my lap. And Chachi's always like, I don't understand — he's like, you could be in a pile of shit and walk away without any on you. So yeah, PCS'd to Korea. And I was a BALO trainer. And I made some great network connections with A-10 pilots, which plays into how I became a Command Chief. Because one of my pilots ended up becoming the wing commander at Holloman. And I was on

Sheet: 9

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

the Command Chief list. I knew him when he was a captain. And when he became wing commander and I was on the list, he selected me.

JD Welsh

Yeah, it pays off to do a good job. A lot of guys don't realize that. They think, oh, I'm just going to do what I want now, but it really pays off to put your nose to the grindstone and do the right thing.

Scott Loescher

So Korea was awesome. We would go up to Casey, I'd take all the BALOs, and do CAS missions, introduce them to the Army, tell them how to speak Army, do all that stuff. And we did that every month. But yeah, it was awesome. You go to Kooney Range, right? I would go to the ops desk and be like, hey, I'm taking the Humvee, going to Kooney, I know you guys are dropping 500-pounders out there today, and I'm going to control it. They're like, okay, cool. So I would drive the Humvee over to Kooney Range.

JD Welsh

Yeah, how far was that from Osan?

Scott Loescher

It was about an hour drive, mostly because of traffic. It wasn't that far at all. And then we'd drive over there and do our thing, or go to Pilsung.

JD Welsh

Yeah, Pilsung was a nightmare but also a great range.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, just do our thing. It was awesome. We had a lot of freedom because there was two of us there. It was myself and George Arnold, so as a young Staff Sergeant, he was the ranking guy. He was an old Staff Sergeant. He used to be a Tech Sergeant, became a Staff Sergeant. But he definitely had a drinking problem.

JD Welsh

(laughs)

Scott Loescher

He at one point got in trouble and had to go to the clinic every day and they watched him take that no-drinking pill. And then he would go out the gate to the bar and get a drink and throw up the pill.

JD Welsh

That's hard-core.

Scott Loescher

Sheet: 10

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

I was like, dude, you're going to die young.

Germany – Operation Deny Flight / Bosnia

Scott Loescher

So after Korea, I PCS'd to Fort Riley. And my wife was super happy about that because that was home for her. Fort Riley was 30 miles away from family and everything else, so she was super happy about that. I did forget a story from when I was in Germany the first time. I went to Operation Deny Flight. I was a CAS controller in the CAOC at Dal Molin for Operation Deny Flight, when we were doing the stuff at Bosnia. And we would work with the SEALs. The SEALs were in Sarajevo, and they were doing ECAS because they were ETAC certified at the time. So they would come out of Bosnia once a month and we'd go up to the range by Aviano and we'd teach them how to do CAS missions. That was my first experience with the SEALs. And back then, they were a rowdy bunch. I mean, they're pretty rowdy now, but they were like the redheaded stepchildren of the special ops community at the time.

JD Welsh

Very different back then, for sure.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, I remember my first time showing up at the range and an SUV pulls up, these dudes get out, they're hammered. They're all wearing civilian gear, North Face and all that stuff. They're like, are we gonna do this? All right, let's do it. We'd be out there for an hour. They're like, alright, we're done, let's go drinking. But I convinced the two-star that the CAS controllers needed to be on the ABCCC as well, so we started flying over Bosnia on ABCCCs. And when we had the F-16 get shot down, right, by an SA-6 — I can't remember the pilot's name — he got shot down in one of the orbits that the ABCCC was in. So we quickly learned not to fly the ABCCC over Bosnia. Because you're in an old C-130 that flew in Vietnam, had bolt hole patches from Vietnam. And for 8-10 hours sitting in a cubicle in the back, you had a screen and an HF radio basically. And you're doing the CAS controller job instead of sitting in the CAOC. But yeah, I was in the orbit, we left, and then like the next day the F-16 got shot down where we had been. Holy shit. I can't do that anymore.

JD Welsh

Well, so wait a minute, because later on guys, that became a job — that became like a full-up duty position. That was kind of like the genesis of the ABCCC program, right?

Scott Loescher

How about that? Yeah, so it started off — no kidding — they wanted a TACP dude in the back of C-130s that were flying into Sarajevo. They were flying from Rhein-Main into Sarajevo. So they grabbed some dudes with an HF radio and they would sit in the back of the airplane and

Sheet: 11

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

call feet wet, feet dry. They would fly into Sarajevo, drop off cargo, whatever, and then fly out. And that was how it started. Then, like I said, we got on the ABCCC, and then those dudes later became like 1C5s, right? They became ABMs and that kind of split off from the back of the airplane.

JD Welsh

Yeah, when I was at DM first, our unit deactivated and half of us went wherever and half of us went to the ABCCC. Like, I didn't get it. There's a bunch of guys there that took that position because they had an ABCCC there at DM. That's crazy.

Fort Riley & Operation Provide Promise

Scott Loescher

So it's funny how that works out. Yeah, so at Fort Riley I deployed. The first time I was there, I deployed to Operation Provide Promise. Did that a little bit — nothing big going on during that, we sat out in the desert and did training CAS missions, just a show of force kind of deal. We did get to fly into northern Iraq.

So the next time I went back to Germany, we were tasked to go into northern Iraq. You remember when the AWACS called out the Black Hawk that got shot down in northern Iraq by an F-15? So that was another one of those Provide Promise mission sets. And when I PCS'd to Germany, I got deployed to Turkey and we were flying into northern Iraq. We'd drop off on a mountaintop OP or whatever and spend two or three days there, and we would call in CAS on the Iraqis that were killing the Kurds.

JD Welsh

I had no idea you guys even did that.

Scott Loescher

We were flying out of Incirlik, going into Northern Iraq, we'd drop off on an OP, and we would sit there three, four days. And we would just call in CAS on the Iraqis that were killing the Kurds.

JD Welsh

Did anyone know you were up there? Did you ever get compromised?

Scott Loescher

Yeah, and then we would bounce. And then that Black Hawk got shot down. And it was one of the Black Hawks that was supporting us.

JD Welsh

And that's how long you did that, man.

OIF 1 – Iraq

Scott Loescher

So, I mean, just crazy shit. So all right. Now, Fort Riley, Germany, then I deployed to OIF 1 out of Riley. We were supposed to be going through the Northern approach through Turkey. You remember that? That went to hell — Turkey wouldn't let us go. So we deployed to Kuwait. And you know, the Marines and everybody else, the Army goes up the eastern corridor of the original plan and then 4th ID comes in behind them. We go up to get to Baghdad. I'm a BALO (Brigade Air Liaison Officer) at the time, E-6. My JTAC was not very good. And so I ended up with the battalion commander where I'm supposed to be. He's in the M-113. Well, the M-113 breaks down on the way up. So he ends up spending his invasion of Iraq being towed on the back of a HET (Heavy Equipment Transporter).

JD Welsh

Just being towed into the war.

Scott Loescher

Getting towed into war. So we get up to Baghdad, and at the time, because it still wasn't secure, MPs are escorting convoys through Baghdad. And then once you got north of Baghdad, the convoy would just break out into tactical formations. And we moved north through Tikrit up to Tal Afar, that area, right? So I spent OIF 1 in basically northern Iraq — Kirkuk, Tal Afar, and Tikrit.

JD Welsh

I remember. How was that?

Scott Loescher

It was good. We didn't understand the threat at the time, and there was a lull after the invasion while the Iraqi forces were trying to figure out what they were gonna do. So I remember sitting in the TOC and the question at the time was, how are we gonna keep our currencies? We'd been on the ground for a few months and we're starting to lose currencies. So the CAOC decided we're gonna start putting some training lines on the ATO and you guys need to go find a place to do training CAS missions to keep your currencies. Into the TOC we're like, hey, we need to set up a training range. S3 is like, oh, we got a great spot. There are these two ASPs (Ammo Supply Points) west of town, like 20 clicks west of town, huge ammo supply points that had been hit, they've been bombed. Nobody goes out there, they're secure, you can use those as your training ranges. Okay.

So we're in Air Force soft-skin Humvees. You had to have an M249 in the back of the Humvee. No doors on the vehicles, nothing. We go over the first day to check it out and the first one we get to, there's UXOs everywhere because they literally dropped the bombs on the bunkers and blew that shit everywhere. We're like, there's no way I'm going in there. So we go to the next ammo supply point and it had not been bombed. And this thing is probably five clicks by five clicks wide. It's just bunkers of anti-tank mines, RPGs, ammo, tank rounds, you name it, artillery rounds — there's shit everywhere in these bunkers. And what the Army did is they welded the doors shut. So we pull up and there's people everywhere and they've got torches out and they're opening the doors and they're loading dump trucks full of ammo. And we're like, well, this ain't good.

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

So we call back to the TOC and we're like, hey, might want to send a QRF out here because this ASP is not secure. You've got people out here taking anti-tank mines and artillery rounds and everything else out of the bunkers. They're like, what, really? Okay, we're sending QRF out. So QRF shows up — it's an up-armored Humvee and a Bradley and there's a Second Lieutenant in charge, right? He shows up, he looks, he jumps off the Bradley and he's like, all right, here's what we're gonna do. I'm gonna go right down the middle, MPs you go left, Air Force dudes you go right. We'll start rounding these dudes up. And he jumps back on the Bradley and drives off. Like we're doing it now.

JD Welsh

Let's go. Yeah. Right now.

Scott Loescher

So he drives the Bradley off. The MPs are like, okay, I guess we're doing this. They've got a 50-cal on the vehicle. I look at all our dudes and, well, I guess we got the right side. I look over at my Airman and I was like, all right, man, we'll just try to round these dudes up. I said, I may try to knock him over with the Humvee and then you just get out and flex cuff. I look up and the Bradley's like on the horizon, firing the 25 millimeter at a dump truck that's trying to get away. The MPs are over on the left, they're firing the 50-cal and they're shooting at people and trucks. So I was like, all right, let's go. We ended up catching like 22 dudes or something like that on our side. Yeah, the MPs killed some dudes, caught some dudes, the Bradley was still chasing the dump truck. But yeah, we caught a bunch of dudes.

JD Welsh

They were just Iraqi citizens that were trying to find…

Scott Loescher

No, they were former Iraqi military trying to get the ammo to do their insurgency. So yeah, I got an Army Commendation Medal, and our two Air Force vehicles — our dudes — we caught more enemy prisoners during that six months than the Army did. That shit was so funny because that was how the Army operated. Just do it.

JD Welsh

I wonder how much of that gear got proliferated out. I think a lot of it.

Scott Loescher

A lot of it proliferated out of there because a lot of the doors were already opened. A lot of the bunkers were empty and they were taking dump trucks of shit out.

JD Welsh

Sheet: 14

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

Yeah, I'm sure a lot of that stuff became IEDs and all kinds of crap.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, no kidding. Less than a month later, we lost our first Bradley to an IED. It was up between Tikrit and Tal Afar, where the highway branches off to go to Kirkuk and then north to Tal Afar. At that intersection, they had buried a 155 round with a pressure plate and took off the whole front end of a Bradley.

So, I'm sitting in the TOC one day, manning the TOC shift. The Army stopped a dump truck on Highway 1 on the west side of Tikrit and they brought it back to the TOC. It was full of homemade gold bars. A dump truck full of homemade gold bars. I got up and myself holding these — it had gems in it and diamonds and everything else. And they think it was from Saddam's regime, activated from the Kuwait invasion assets.

JD Welsh

You put it in your gear, take one home. I wanted to. They're not gonna miss any.

Scott Loescher

I mean, it was crazy at that time. It was the wild, wild West. We also had a situation where dudes hit a house, heard bad guys were there, insurgents or whatever, and the house was filled with hundred-dollar bills.

JD Welsh

Like U.S. $100 bills.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, floor to ceiling in a room full of money.

JD Welsh

Wonder where they got that. Yeah, probably from before we got there.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, because they ended up catching Saddam right across the river from where our TOC was.

JD Welsh

That's cool. Did you get to see him?

Scott Loescher

No. They whisked him away. Because we were staying in one of the guest palaces on the south end of Tikrit, right on the river. And they caught him in a spider hole just on the other side of the river.

Baghdad 2004 – Karbala

Sheet: 15

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

Scott Loescher

So that was OIF 1. I was at Fort Riley, did OIF 1, came back to Fort Riley, and then PCS'd to Friedberg, Germany. Get to Friedberg. First Armored Division is in Germany. They've been deployed for all of OIF 1 for 12 months, then got extended to a 15-month deployment. And so we had a team on the ground, and we're like, hey, let's put the dudes together and we'll go down for a three-month to cover the rest of their deployment so the guys can come home. They've already been there for six months.

So I go down to get deployed to Baghdad, and this is 2004. Get deployed to Baghdad, hit the ground. I didn't even make it to dropping my bags off in a CHU (Containerized Housing Unit) or whatever. The Division ALO — because I'm a BALO at the time — meets us, and he goes, hey, Scott, I need you to go down to Karbala and plan and execute this mission. Big mission going on in Karbala. And at that time, all the Sadr militia stuff is going on in Baghdad and south of Baghdad. I mean, it's literally a shit show. So I was like, okay, Roger that. I get on another helicopter, fly down to Karbala, drop my shit off, going to the TOC. Rock Davis is there with the ODA. Dennis Krause was with me. And we had a good team.

Scott Loescher

So let's plan this out. You had First Brigade, First Armored Division in Karbala, you had a Polish brigade in Karbala, and then you had Rock's ODA team running around causing mayhem in Karbala as well. And anytime in the old city of Karbala, we did not own that. That was Sadr territory. We couldn't go in without getting into a serious fight. So what the Army was doing was putting patrols out, going around the old part of the city, and getting engaged everywhere. And the Polish brigade was like, yeah, I'm not doing that anymore because I'm losing too many people. So they planned this operation to clear out the old part of Karbala. And you heard, who was it, Jim Lurich? Yeah, right. He was on the ACE for this mission. So we planned this mission out, and a few days later we go to execute.

So we start sending forces out and getting them ready. We set up a TOC right outside the old part of the city, and me and Scott Gregory are at the TOC. Rock has his part — going into the old part of the city and hitting some specific things. But then we had, no kidding, a Polish armor brigade and a US armor brigade going to clear Fallujah-style the old part of Karbala. Which is a very historically significant city for the Shia — lots of mosques, cemeteries, and historically significant buildings that everybody was worried about.

So we're getting ready to kick off, like an hour before LD (Line of Departure), and the radio comes over from division saying our operation has been canceled due to political reasons. And the brigade commander jumps on the radio, he's like, what are you talking about?! And it turns out that Rumsfeld canceled our mission because he didn't want the political blowback of us damaging any of those historical sites.

So the Polish general gets off the radio, slams it down, everybody's pissed. The Polish general looks at the colonel and he goes, if you don't do this operation tonight, I'm pulling my forces out of the city. We're leaving. And I was like, hey, I got an idea. I have an AC-130, I've got a four ship of F-16s, we've got a Predator. I say we still do this, but we just do it a different way. You guys have been sending patrols out around the old part of the city every night and they get

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

engaged every night. Let them go do it again. And then you have self-defense, and then we can rain death and destruction after they get engaged and do our operation. The brigade commander looks over at the legal guy and the legal guy says, yep, technically he's right. And he goes*, okay, let's do it.* And so we did that entire night.

So the F-16s went home Winchester (out of weapons). We kept the Predator as long as we could because we had one of those new ROVER (Remotely Operated Video Enhanced Receiver) units. So we had a ROVER so we could see what was going on. They sent two tanks out on the patrol route. The first intersection they get to, there's like four RPGs get fired at them. And then it was game on. And we just followed these dudes through the old part of the city using the gunship and literally went and cleared the old part of the city. So the gunship went home — they were on station so long that they had to leave to refuel, then they came back and went home, Winchester.

JD Welsh

For those who don't know, that's not easy to do. I mean, the gunship carries so much ammunition that if you're Winchester in a gunship, you're shooting a lot of ammunition.

Scott Loescher

We just chased these dudes throughout the city. Anytime Rock would get engaged, we would engage the enemy there. We were taking down buildings that they were hiding in. You could see on the FMV (Full Motion Video) where they were moving cases of RPG rockets from one building to another. So we would just take those buildings down. At one point — and Jim mentioned this as well — the building that we hit sat between two historically significant mosques, within about a hundred meters of each one. And they put 64 rounds of delay-fused 155mm rounds in that building. I actually had the brigade commander get on the radio and tell the AC-130 crew that there couldn't be any CDE (Collateral Damage Estimate) for that. And they were like, okay, got it. And I said, clear it out.

JD Welsh

And they did it too. I mean, that's the capability and precision of that gunship. They can put it where you need it without a lot of collateral damage.

Scott Loescher

So that picture I sent you of the two M-1s sitting on the street pointing at the building, that was the building. The rest of the three months goes along, there's other missions and stuff like that. But I got a Bronze Star out of that deployment, and a big part of it was because of what we did down in Karbala, because after we cleared the old part of the city, there was not another insurgent attack in Karbala for over a year.

JD Welsh

That's what Jim was saying. He was like, after you guys did that, they were like, all right, forget it. They're going to stand down because if they have that capability... it's easy to take pot shots

Sheet: 17

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

at a patrol going by, but once they are actively engaged, there probably weren't a lot of them left.

Scott Loescher

You know, we killed like 180 dudes that night. Yeah, so they left Karbala — went south and north to Baghdad — but they left Karbala. You could literally drive around with the windows down and feel safe in Karbala for about a year.

Friedberg & The LULAC Award

Scott Loescher

So anyway, I got a Bronze Star out of that. I go back home, redeploy to Friedberg, and in our 18-man shop, I'm now the NCOIC (Non-Commissioned Officer In Charge of the shop. And the unit ALO is a captain whose call sign is Porno, because he has three red X's in his training folder from three failed F-16 checkrides.

JD Welsh

Alright. Okay.

Scott Loescher

So he had a policy of putting somebody in for every award nomination that came out. And so the League of United Latin American Citizens award comes out. I don't even know what that is. So I spend 10 seconds reading this thing and I delete it, because in my very straight logical mind, you have to be Hispanic to win the Latin American Citizens award.

JD Welsh

I already know what's happening, but go ahead, keep going.

Scott Loescher

So no kidding, a minute later, the captain hollers at me from across the hall. He's like, Scott, who are we putting in for this LULAC award? I'm like, nobody, sir.

Scott Loescher

We argued for like 10 minutes. My argument was we have no Hispanics in the shop, and his argument back is that you don't have to be Hispanic to win the LULAC Award. I'm like, it's implied that you be Hispanic to win the League of United Latin American Citizens Global War on Terror Award. So I think I win this argument. Turns out I didn't win it because he took my Bronze Star write-up from Karbala and put me in for the LULAC Award, and I won for the Air Force.

JD Welsh

Which got you the call sign.

Scott Loescher

Sheet: 18

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

Pedro, because Napoleon Dynamite had just come out. So all my dudes showed up at PT one day wearing Vote for Pedro t-shirts. And on the back it says, Pedro offers his protection. And so yeah, I earned the call sign Pedro from that.

JD Welsh

That is awesome. I'd always wondered. I never knew why that happened. That's a great story.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, so that goes back to Chachi's like, man, shit just happens to you. And the Pedro thing was huge. I had to go to Little Rock, Arkansas, to the LULAC National Convention. My wife and I flew back from Germany to Little Rock, went to the presidential ball, met Bill Clinton, met the CEO of GM, met the ambassador from Mexico.

JD Welsh

Wait, what are you doing here?

Scott Loescher

Yeah, you can tell in their minds that the wheels are turning.

Scott Loescher

It's still on Google right now. If you Google 2005 LULAC armed forces award, you see everybody else apparently understood the assignment. You get all these Hispanic names, and then you just scroll down and it says Loescher.

JD Welsh

That's an odd part of Mexico where you're from.

Scott Loescher

I'm standing on the stage getting the award. There's an Air Force Hispanic two-star general looking up at me, right? And he's shaking my hand. He's like, Sergeant Loescher, you absolutely deserve this award. I was like, sir, you gotta be kidding me.

JD Welsh

So funnier than the actual story?

Scott Loescher

Small world though, right? So when we're at the presidential ball, this guy, last name Gonzalez, he's like the president of the Hispanic Chamber of Commerce for the United States. And he was kind of like our chaperone. We're at the presidential ball, talking, and he's like, I never asked you, what do you do in the Air Force? So I told him. He's like, huh, my brother did something like that in the Air Force. And I'm thinking Gonzalez — do I know a Gonzalez? I do know a Gonzalez, because Gonzo, call sign Gonzo, was my flight leader in tech school.

JD Welsh

Sheet: 19

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

Jeez. What a small world.

Scott Loescher

His brother was my class leader in tech school. So he calls him up on the phone and hands me the phone. I was like, Gonzo, what's up man? It's Loescher. And there's silence. He's like, Loescher from tech school? I was like, yeah. He's like, what are you doing with my brother? I was like, I'm at the LULAC National Convention. He's like, what are you doing at the LULAC Convention, dude? I won the LULAC Award for the Air Force. He's like, *what the f*ck?*

JD Welsh

All because of some ambitious ALO that wanted to put everybody in for something.

Scott Loescher

So yeah, I was the Hispanic of the year 2005 for the Air Force.

JD Welsh

Congratulations, you deserve it, man.

Ramadi

Scott Loescher

So the next deployment was Ramadi. We originally deployed with 2nd Brigade, 1st Armored Division and originally deployed up to Tal Afar. Not much was going on in Tal Afar — not much going on. The SOF dudes were doing some stuff, but it was pretty quiet up there. But Ramadi, Western Iraq as a whole, was super hot at the time. And so they decided to redeploy the brigade down to Ramadi to help the Marines out. And General McFarland — at that time Colonel McFarland was the brigade commander. And so we packed up the whole brigade and drove south through Tikrit, through Baghdad, and out into Western Iraq into Ramadi.

JD Welsh

How long did that take?

Scott Loescher

To redeploy the brigade, it took about two weeks for the entire brigade to drive to Ramadi. And dudes are getting IED'd, they're getting attacked on the way. Because you're just driving convoys down Highway 1, you know? They've got tanks on HETs being towed along, and the HETs are getting hit by IEDs and getting attacked because it's hard to hide moving an entire armor brigade.

JD Welsh

Sheet: 20

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

You're right. If you're going a certain direction, they probably know that's where you're going to be in a day or two, so they can set things up.

Scott Loescher

Exactly. So at that time we were doing nine-month deployments. We spent about three months in Tal Afar and then we moved to Ramadi. About six months out in Ramadi. So we show up out there and there was a Guard armor brigade that wasn't really doing much, basically just surviving. And so Colonel McFarland came up with an operation plan on how to clear the insurgents out of Ramadi. So we had a super good dude, Captain Patrick Quinn. Super deployed. He grew close to the sheikh out there. That was part of Colonel McFarland's plan — you've got to be close to the people that are actually running shit.

JD Welsh

Yeah, hearts and minds kind of thing.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, so Captain Patrick and the sheikh. The sheikh was letting the insurgency go on because he was against it, but there was nothing he could do about it. The Americans out there had just been surviving, they weren't fighting per se. So we came with fire. I was like, we're going to start clearing neighborhoods. It's not going to be Fallujah-style, we're not going to knock down all the buildings, we're not going to drop bombs and do keyhole CAS everywhere. We're just going to start clearing insurgents out of neighborhoods, then set up a COP in that neighborhood and they'll become neighborhood watch. And so we started doing that, and we would go outside the wire every day and be in a firefight every day for six months. It didn't matter — you were either getting IED'd or getting shot at and returning fire, but every single day for six months we were going outside the wire doing that.

So one day I'm in the TOC. The insurgents were starting to use those road-cutting asphalt saws. They were putting IEDs under the asphalt. They would cut a block out of the asphalt, drop a couple of 155 rounds in there with a pressure plate, then put the asphalt back down and use a blowtorch and melt the tar. So you cannot tell that there was an IED in the ground. One night on the southern part of the city, we had a Shadow UAV up and I'm watching the screen. Kerlin was out of town, I think he was in Baghdad. So the ranking guy was the S3, who was a major. I'm looking at the Shadow and I was like, is anybody watching this? There's like 10 dudes in a van and they've got their road-cutting saw out and they're cutting a hole in the asphalt in the middle of this neighborhood on the south part of the city. And S3 looks up from what he was doing. He's like, holy shit. He goes, Air Force, do we got anybody on station? I was like, nope. I can get somebody on station. So I call up the DASC (Direct Air Support Center). I've got two F-14s and they've got GBU-12s. They have three minutes of play time.

JD Welsh

Better make it count.

Scott Loescher

Sheet: 21

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

Yeah, three minutes of play time. So I did a quick 9-line, passed it to him, looked at the S3 and I was like, here's what's going on, I'm gonna put a delay fuse on it and we'll try not to knock down any houses. He's like, do it. Three minutes of play time, clear them hot, and they dropped the GBU-12 right on where they're putting the IED in the ground and killed them all. Knocked down the rock fences on the side of the street, no damage to any houses. That's how you do it.

Another funny story — Chachi works with this guy now, the S3. Chachi is on the board of a university in Kansas City and this guy is on the board as well. They hired him and he flew to Kansas City, and the guy asked Chachi what he did in the Air Force. Chachi tells him, and he's like, do you know Pedro? Chachi's like, hell yeah, I know Pedro. He's like, yeah, I was the S3 in Ramadi.

JD Welsh

Wow, that's crazy.

Scott Loescher

What a small world, dude!

Scott Loescher

Yeah, so that deployment — going outside the wire every day and getting shot at every day. And I actually had one of those phone calls with my wife like, hey, I know we took care of everything before I left, but I'm not quite sure I'm going to make it home out of this one. I'm just giving you a heads up. She's like, don't say that. And I'm just telling you.

JD Welsh

It's exhausting. Just every day, it's exhausting.

Scott Loescher

I mean, you get up, plan a mission, go outside the wire, come home, sleep, take care of your equipment, sleep for a little while, get up, plan a mission, go outside the wire. That was your six months straight.

JD Welsh

How are you doing from that? Has it had any kind of lasting effect on you?

Scott Loescher

But anyway, I mentioned Captain Patrick. So we turned everything around in Ramadi, but unfortunately, Patrick went outside the wire and he was going to an engagement with the sheikh. And he got IED'd. He got killed. His driver got killed. Dudes I worked with every day got killed. But the sheikh — they were close friends — got pissed off. And he came to the base and met with Colonel McFarland and told Colonel McFarland that whatever he needed to get the insurgents out of Ramadi, he was going to do now, no matter what it took, because they killed Captain Patrick. And literally, we cleared Ramadi. He had loyal Iraqi police and they were doing

Sheet: 22

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

their thing. And we would just go outside the wire, clear these neighborhoods out. And we cleared the insurgents out of Ramadi.

JD Welsh

It sucks that it took that to get that sheikh to act, but I'm glad he did. It just sucks when you lose guys you know and you feel like it could have been prevented.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, exactly. But anyway, I don't think I have any lasting effects from that deployment.

JD Welsh

I'm sure it's hard to tell. Some guys don't. You seem very healthy, you seem in a good place.

Scott Loescher

I did, when I came back from that deployment, my wife was in Heidelberg. It was around New Year's. She's like, hey, I want to go downtown Heidelberg for New Year's.

JD Welsh

Yeah, I've been, but not in a big place. I was in smaller places, like Grafenwoehr.

Scott Loescher

You know how they all do the little fireworks and all that. Yeah. So we're on one of the bridges that goes over the river and it's shoulder-to-shoulder and everybody's shooting off fireworks and there's explosions and everything else, and I look at my wife and I was like, we gotta go. And she's like, really? I was like, I can't do this. We gotta go.

JD Welsh

Just got to you a little bit, huh?

Scott Loescher

I definitely got to me, because I'd been home for like two weeks. You know, getting shot at all the time, and then I go downtown and all the fireworks are going off and everything else. And I was like, yep. I know you want to be here and see this, but I can't take it.

JD Welsh

I could see that. Sometimes it's so involuntary, you just have that reaction. It's too quick of a turnaround. I'm sure it's some sort of spectrum where people have different levels, but it's not something you can just control.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, that was probably one of the biggest signs that it got to me. But I mean, you're seeing dudes getting killed every day.

JD Welsh

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

I mean, it's just natural to feel that way. Humans aren't supposed to experience these things. We're trained to deal with them, but at the end of the day…

Scott Loescher

It's horrific. And it really is. So going back to Desert Storm, when we were sitting outside of Ali Al Salem in Kuwait, there's CBU bomblets everywhere. And one day two Army guys are actually playing catch with a CBU and tossing it back and forth and it blew up on one of them. Blew one dude's arm off when he went to catch it. The other dude had one in his pocket, took it out of his pocket and threw it on the ground, and when it hit the ground it blew up and blew part of his leg off. So they call in Medevac, and I'm watching this. Sergeant Major looks at me and he's like, go get that dude's leg. I go get the dude's leg, throw it on the stretcher with the dude, put him on the helicopter, and off he goes. I didn't think anything about it other than, I picked up a dude's leg and put it back on the stretcher with him. But I'm sure that affected me.

JD Welsh

Exactly. You're in that situation — that's the normal thing to do, go get the leg so the guy can possibly have it reattached. But if you would have done that in a car accident in a small town, it would have been a very different experience.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, internalize it, compartmentalize it, because you've got to get up the next day and go do it again.

Later Deployments & Senior NCO

Scott Loescher

So yeah, that was Ramadi. And then I went back home to Germany, then deployed again, then PCS'd to Riley, deployed again. And this time I was a Master Sergeant. I made Senior by then. So I went to Basra, and then we were down in Basra for a little bit and then moved up to Baghdad with Sean Gill, because I had moved up in responsibility.

JD Welsh

You don't get the cool guy stuff anymore, you gotta do the bigger picture.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, and that deployment, not much really going on at that point. There was still uncertainty, still stuff going on, but I was stuck behind a desk for most of that one.

JD Welsh

Yeah. Sean O'Neill was with you over there? Yeah. Okay. Yeah, Sean's a good dude. We go way back.

Sheet: 24

Scott Loescher

So I went home from that one and then PCS'd back to Germany to be the functional manager at USAFE. Because then I started getting into positions where, all right, now I'm starting to take care of lots of dudes, lots of career field type stuff. Oh wait, I skipped one. So I had an assignment to Bliss in the middle of that.

JD Welsh

I was wondering about that.

Scott Loescher

So Chachi was at Hohenfels and I was at Friedberg, and we were shutting Friedberg down because First Armored Division was moving to Bliss. And so I was going to move over to Wiesbaden. That was the plan. And Chachi was going to Bliss to stand up 7th ASOS. It was taking my equipment. So I would call him up and give him shit. I was like, hey man, I got the weapons racks all good to go. Do you want me to bring the keys down to Hohenfels so you can PCS with those? He was like, yeah, screw you, man. So karma being what karma is, I didn't get to go to Wiesbaden. I got orders like a week later to Bliss.

JD Welsh

Oh, that smack-talking coming back to haunt you.

Scott Loescher

So I ended up with Chachi and Nick Sully at Bliss. And we stood up the 7th ASOS.

JD Welsh

That's a good crew, man.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, we had a good time. And then I PCS'd back to Germany and became the USAFE functional manager. And then I got orders back to Bliss. Wait — I had made Chief, so I became the squadron superintendent at Bliss. And then I came out on the Command Chief list, and that's when Keebler — who I knew as a young captain — became the wing commander at Holloman. And he hired me to be the Command Chief at Holloman.

JD Welsh

Yeah. What was he flying at that point?

Scott Loescher

He was flying Reapers. He became a Reaper guy.

JD Welsh

So he went from an A-10 to a Reaper. I know a lot of A-10 guys have gone to F-35s, but I never heard one go that route.

Command Chief – Holloman

Scott Loescher

So anyway, I became the Command Chief at Holloman, which was an eye-opening experience. A lot of politics. A lot of Airmen trying to get their way. And you're the Command Chief. My first meeting as a Command Chief was the First Sergeant's breakfast. The Command Chief manages all the First Sergeants. So I had 27 First Sergeants. And you know how First Sergeants are. So we're at the club, having breakfast, and I'm a pretty good judge of people. You can just tell where your problems are going to be from talking to dudes. And one of them I could tell was going to be a problem.

At the end of the breakfast, one of the First Sergeants is like, hey Chief, you know, just your TACP background, we've never had a TACP background on a Command Chief — just looking at your philosophy, what do you think us First Sergeants should be doing? I was like, really? I was like, how about you do your job? And all the First Sergeants stopped talking. I was like, you're Senior Master Sergeants and First Sergeants in here. You guys have gone to First Sergeant school. You guys have had people you need to take care of. I expect you to do your damn job. That's what I expect. That's my philosophy. I expect you to be a good First Sergeant. And if you're not, I'll replace you.

JD Welsh

That seemed like kind of an ass-kiss question.

Scott Loescher

I set the tone. And yeah, it was pretty good.

JD Welsh

You know, the rest of the guys in that room were probably looking at that guy like, what a dick. Not you, but like the other guy — what an ass kiss.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, and everybody knew it too. And he ended up being my biggest problem First Sergeant. So I'd have to babysit him and go talk to him face-to-face once in a while.

JD Welsh

There's always that one guy that takes up like 50% of your time, which is unfair to everybody else because they're trying to do their job.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, so I learned a lot about the Air Force.

JD Welsh

Sheet: 26

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

Tell me about the culture. Like, you've been on Army posts your whole career, so tell me about the culture.

Scott Loescher

You know, it was totally different than what I was used to. And I explained to the wing commander when he first hired me, I was like, you do understand you're not getting an Air Force guy, you're getting a joint guy, who has a different mentality than 99% of the people on this base. So there's probably going to be some trouble.

JD Welsh

(laughs)

Scott Loescher

And he just started laughing. He goes, dude, I know you. He goes, I know your ethics and your morality and everything else. He goes, you can cause as much trouble as you want because I know it's gonna be going in the right direction. I was like, okay, perfect, blank check.

So as the Command Chief, I made a point to go to everybody's workplaces. A lot of Command Chiefs don't do that. I wanted to know what everybody was doing because I'd been on Army posts my whole career. I wanted to understand how an Air Force base worked. I was over at the loggies. I was over with the cops. I would stand on the gate. I went to the fire department and learned how to cut into a roof to get into a fire with a chainsaw. I went to the maintenance guys and I would load Hellfires, or BDU-50s, on a Reaper because we had the RPA training there.

JD Welsh

I bet they loved that. They saw you coming in there and yeah, of course part of them was like, what the hell's the Chief doing here? But then they saw how you approached it. It wasn't scrutiny. It was more like, hey, tell me stuff I don't know, because I don't know what you guys do. So they probably appreciated that.

Scott Loescher

Yep, exactly. So my exec that I had — I hired him, he was an instructor at the MQ-9 squadron, he was a sensor operator. Really good dude, Chris Stevens, and he had triplets. Whenever I'd go to his house, it wasn't just, hey, I need you to take care of this. I would go to his house and meet his wife and meet his kids. To this day, we still FaceTime every couple months. He'd be in the car and the kids are in the back seat and they're like, Chief!

JD Welsh

That's awesome.

Scott Loescher

Sheet: 27

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

So yeah, I got him into the enlisted pilot program and he became one of the first enlisted RPA pilots. And to this day, he is a contractor in North Dakota as a pilot instructor for Global Hawk. That's really great. But that was my mentality — take care of your people, they take care of you. It had happened my whole career. I just brought that with me when I became a Command Chief. I had a great relationship with the folks in Cloudcroft and in Alamogordo, the politicians and everything like that. Because that's part of being wing leadership. The base is a huge part of Alamogordo, New Mexico.

JD Welsh

People don't realize the value of having a military base outside your town. There are some inherent problems, but at the end of the day, it's a benefit. It generates revenue for businesses and all kinds of stuff.

Command Chief – Ali Al Salem

Scott Loescher

So my two years were coming up at Holloman and the 12th Air Force Command Chief, Jose Barraza, called me up and he's like, alright man, here are the jobs that are open for two-time Command Chiefs, for your second job. And one of those was Ali Al Salem. I was like, I want to go to Ali Al Salem because I'm getting close to retiring. And if I can — I started my career in combat at Ali Al Salem. I would love to end it as a Command Chief at Ali Al Salem, talk about going full circle on that. I said, I've got to talk to the wife and tell her I'll be deployed for a year.

And at the time she was still working at Fort Bliss, so we had a house down in El Paso from when we were stationed there. And so I called her up and I was like, hey, here's what they got. I really want to do this job, which is a year deployment to Kuwait. She was like, really, another damn deployment? If that's what you want to do, go ahead and do it.

So I became the Command Chief at the 386th there at Ali Al Salem. I say that I chose it, but there's still an interview process, and I did well on my interview with the incoming wing commander. We clicked. The thing that I did not understand was Ali Al Salem is an airlift wing, not a training wing or a CAS wing. It was airlift. And I didn't understand airlift at the time until I went there. And it was also unique in that it's a deployed environment, right? And 80% of the people in the wing are Guard, and they would change out every 120 days.

JD Welsh

Was there any overlap at all or was it just a brand new wing every time?

Scott Loescher

Like a week of handoff. The wing leadership was the continuity. That was it.

So at Ali Al Salem, we had C-130s. We had a couple C-17s that belonged to a detachment from Al Udeid. We had a SOF detachment that had AC-130s and MC-130s. And we had an EC-130. This is 2015-2016. So the fight with ISIS in Iraq and Syria is hot and heavy — both Northern

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

Iraq, especially Mosul, and all of Syria. So we had the C-130 airlift for all of that, Iraqi training units (advisors) that fell under the wing, and we owned all the airfields in Iraq and Syria. I'd get on a C-130, fly to Kobani, and I'd bring a pallet full of chow hall food or chocolate milk and cereal — things those dudes weren't getting — and I'd push that shit out the door and be like, hey, here you guys go. Have at it. And they'd be like, oh, that's awesome, we've been eating MREs.

JD Welsh

They loved that.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, that was part of what I did — going out, not just staying at Ali Al Salem, but going out to where we had airfields and people, especially those that were in the fight. And you know how hot it is in Kuwait. One day it's like 123 degrees out and I volunteered to go do a 180-day inspection with an A1C on the flight line on the EC-130. Changing the oil on the engines, putting safety wires on, everything else. And it is hot. Oh my god. And this Airman is just doing his job. He's like, I've never had a senior enlisted guy come out and help me do one of these. He goes, let alone the Command Chief.

JD Welsh

And there's probably a reason for that, because it sucks.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, but I changed that dude's perspective by going out there and doing what he does.

JD Welsh

I'm sure he had a newfound respect for you, not just you but chiefs in general. Before that they were some high-up guy he never talked to. You kind of humanized it.

Scott Loescher

So one of the things I'm pretty proud of has finally come to fruition. We had some senators come through. Ali Al Salem had some hard billets, semi-permanent buildings — basically high-end CHUs. And the hospital was a permanent building. The wing headquarters was a permanent building. There were a few other permanent buildings, but mostly it was semi-permanent stuff. When you go over where the lower enlisted lived, they were still in tents. Dude, we'd been at Ali Al Salem for 20 years and they're living in tents with bunk beds. And I got angry when I got there. We've been here for 20 years and we haven't figured this out yet?

JD Welsh

That's probably the justification back in the day. They're like, we're not gonna be here very long so we're not gonna put any permanent stuff here. But then 20 years go by.

Scott Loescher

Sheet: 29

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

Anyway, yeah, so I was at AFA in September of this year and my wing commander from Ali Al Salem is now a three-star, he's the 18th Air Force commander — Pomp Bolton — and he's like, Pedro, you're not gonna believe this. They just opened up all of the permanent buildings for the Airmen's quarters at Ali Al Salem. I was like, are you kidding me? It took another nine years to get it done, but meeting with those senators... I told the wing commander when they knew they were coming in — Chief Master Sergeant of the Air Force K. Wright comes in — I was like, I don't care what else we show them, but we're not showing them anything shiny. We're showing them all the broke shit. We're showing them all the temporary stuff and we're going to advocate to get some money so that we can get this shit fixed. So we took those senators to one of the tents where the Airmen lived. I was like, these things have been here for 20 years. How would you like to live in this for four months? And they were like, we'll get you the money. So they did, and they just opened it up this year. It's a win.

19th ASOS & Retirement

Scott Loescher

So then when K. Wright came through to visit, I had been talking to the wife. I was like, hey, I don't think I want another Command Chief job. I said, I want to put my beret back on, go to a squadron, and retire out of a squadron. And she was like, okay, sounds good. She goes, talk to K. Wright and see where you can go. So K. Wright and I are smoking a cigar there at Ali Al Salem. He goes, where do you want to go, Pedro? And I was like, I want to go to Fort Campbell. I was like, 19th ASOS doesn't have a slot for a two-time wing Command Chief, and I get that. I'm going to have less than a year left and I'll be at 30. I said, you could extend me out. I'll do what the Air Force wants me to do and go wherever you want me to go. He goes, well, I was lining you up to go to 18th Air Force because you've been here and you understand the airlift stuff. And I'm going to put you at 18th Air Force. I was like, yeah, I'll go do it if you want me to. But if you're asking Pedro what he wants to do, I want to go to Fort Campbell and put my beret back on and be with the dudes for my last year. He goes, you know you're gonna be a pain in my ass. I was like, I get it. But so would you.

JD Welsh

I mean, how much of a pain, come on.

Scott Loescher

K. Wright and I were in Afghanistan together. When I was the group chief in Afghanistan, he was the AETF Command Chief. We were in the same building together, smoking cigars every night. So I just like, dude, this is what I want to do. He goes, if that's really what you want to do, I'll make it happen. The next day I had orders to Fort Campbell.

JD Welsh

Sheet: 30

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

That's what I'm saying.

Scott Loescher

He called AFPC and said, move Scott to here. And the next day I had my follow-on out of Kuwait to 19th ASOS. So I PCS'd there. I walk in and Schmaleskoski is the squadron commander, brand new, he'd been on the job a week. I come in, drop my backpack off. I go in his office, shut the door. I'm like, hey sir, just want to be clear. You and I both know I can run this place. But that's not my job. My job is to take care of the dudes and take care of you and make sure we're successful. And that's what I'm gonna do until I retire. And he was like, oh God, Chief, I'm so glad you came in and said that. He was worried.

JD Welsh

He was worried you were going to try to butt heads with him or just take over.

Scott Loescher

You've got a two-time wing Command Chief coming in to be a squadron chief, right? Yeah. And so I came in and I was like, nope. That's not my job.

JD Welsh

Good for you, man. I'm sure that made it a lot easier.

Scott Loescher

Oh yeah, we're great friends still.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, so I spent my last nine months there at Campbell. Did some good things, like we fixed the bar up.

JD Welsh

Priorities. I love it.

Scott Loescher

I actually took my first two EPRs and framed them and put them in the bar. The one from a two to a four — the one that said "This airman is not compatible with service" to "This is the Airman you take to war."

JD Welsh

That's good though, because it shows Airmen that you can make mistakes, you can screw up, and as long as you don't give up, you can come back from it.

Scott Loescher

Sheet: 31

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

Yeah, it's like a university. So Schmaleskoski would make me — on Fridays, we'd turn the lights on, open up the bar in the afternoon, and he would make everybody come to the bar. And then Chief had to tell a story. As long as Chief told a story, because he was like, dude, you've got so much history, you've gotta pass it on to these young guys so they know it. So every Friday I would tell a story. We'd all grab a drink and tell a story.

So anyway, I retired in 2018. My plan was to not do anything. I'm a retired 30-year Chief. That lasted two weeks before my wife punched me in the face, figuratively. She's like, go get a job. Go do anything, just get out of here. I was like, fine. So I went on LinkedIn and clicked the button that said open to work. And the next day I had a phone call from a small company that provides contractors to AFLCMC, going, dude, we have a job for you. And it's a program manager at Wright-Patterson at the Air Force Special Warfare Program Office. I was like, that doesn't sound too bad. What is it paying? And they told me, and I was like, yeah, perfect.

JD Welsh

That's great.

Life After Service

Scott Loescher

I'm good, right? So I told the wife and she put in for the Chief of the MPF because that's a civilian position. She does HR and she got the job. So we moved to Dayton. And she was the wing Chief of Personnel and I had that Program Manager job. But the funny thing is, before I even started the job, the COO of the company called me up. He's like, dude, you're not gonna believe this. Am I fired already? He starts laughing. He goes, no. He goes, I have to give you a raise. I was like, what? He goes, yeah. We sent your resume over to the program office and they're so excited about it that they gave you a promotion and I have to give you a raise.

JD Welsh

Cool, yeah.

Scott Loescher

I was like, are you shitting me? How much? And he told me, I was like, holy shit. You realize I haven't even started yet. So we got there 2018. And then in September of 2019, the wife put in for Chief of HR for Region 1 of the Forest Service in Montana, because we'd always talked about moving to Montana when I retired. And she got the job. And I was like, well, holy shit. I said, I'm going to go in and talk to the Colonel and see if he'll let me work remote out of Montana. So I went in and I was like, hey sir, I think I'm value-added. I think I'm doing what you need me to do. My wife got this job in Montana. I'm going to move to Montana. I would like to still be a program manager at the Special Warfare Program Office, but I'd like to do it remotely 100% from Montana. And he goes, we've never done that before. I was like, okay, what do we need to do to make it happen? So we modified the contract to allow me to go move to Montana to work remote — right before COVID.

Sheet: 32

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

JD Welsh

Oh, perfect.

Scott Loescher

Right. So I moved up there over Christmas of 2019. And that modification of the contract that allowed me to work remote — all of AFLCMC took that contract language to kick everybody out of the office during COVID. He goes, Scott, I just wanted to thank you. You made me look good.

JD Welsh

He took full credit for that.

Scott Loescher

We were the first division within AFLCMC that was able to kick everybody out of the office legally and have them fall under the contract correctly. So moved up here end of 2019. I worked for that program office for another year and then I don't know if you know Ed Priest?

JD Welsh

Yeah, yep, I've met him a couple times.

Scott Loescher

He used to be at 24th. So he called me up out of the blue one day. He's like, hey, Pedro. He goes, I got a job for you. I was like, no shit, what is it? He told me, he goes, I'm a consultant for SNC (Sierra Nevada Corporation) and they have a job for business development on the TRAX team. I was like, oh, awesome, tell me about it. So he tells me all about it. What's the salary range? And I was like, oh shit, that's a big jump. I said, yeah, I'm in. So next day the director of business development for TRAX calls me up, says, are you willing to travel? I was like, yep. He goes, okay, you're hired. So the next day I got an email and a week later I was hired on to be business development for TRAX for the Air Force portfolio for SNC. I've been doing it now almost four years.

JD Welsh

Yeah. Guys need to remember when they're in the military — try to get as many qualifications as possible and do as much as possible. Because sometimes when you get out, those qualifications translate. You may not think that when you get out, but sometimes you don't get to decide what comes next.

Scott Loescher

Absolutely. I kind of lucked into it. But when I first moved to Germany as a young Airman and I changed my mindset — this is not college, I need to get my shit together if I want to stay in the

Sheet: 33

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

Air Force and make a career out of it — I took every opportunity I could get my hands on. And so it paid off.

JD Welsh

Yeah, it pays dividends when you get out. And like I said, we don't have the foresight to see where we'll be down the road. So just prepare for everything. Get your degree, get a master's, take those command positions, do all you can. Don't just stay in tactical mode forever. At the end of the day, eventually you're gonna have to do something else.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, initially you're going to be in the civilian sector. And what doesn't translate is blowing shit up. Shooting people in the face and blowing shit up doesn't translate to a civilian job.

JD Welsh

Yeah, there's very few jobs out there that will hire an Air Force JTAC to go do that stuff still.

Scott Loescher

Very, very finite. So yeah, man, we're happy. When we moved up here, we bought a place actually sight unseen. Before COVID, it was 10 acres with a house and a shop. And it butts up against the Selway-Bitterroot Wilderness. So there's 150 square miles of wilderness outside my back door. We get bears and elk and everything else come through here.

JD Welsh

When we first started, I saw something out your back window there. Was that your dog or was that like a fox or a wolf?

Scott Loescher

That was Austin, a German Shepherd-Husky mix.

JD Welsh

I was hoping when I saw that, it'd be cool if a moose came by or an elk or something. A lot of guys are going up to Montana and Idaho and Wyoming because there's not a lot of people up there. There's a lot of wilderness. It's a great place to live.

Scott Loescher

The people are awesome. We have a really great social circle that we fell into when we moved up here. In fact, everyone's coming over to my bar tomorrow to watch the Chiefs game. And yeah, the politics are good and the cost of living is something else.

JD Welsh

I guess we'd have to stay out of Helena and Billings and those bigger towns, or does it matter?

Scott Loescher

Sheet: 34

mixam the smart way to print mixamcom - Assets Server on 2026-07-01, 08:02 order: 2105382 [8.50" X 11.00"]

No, it doesn't matter. We live about 20 miles south of Missoula. I fly in and out of Missoula. The airport is 30 minutes away. I do a hop from here to either Denver, Salt Lake City, or Minneapolis. From there, I can get anywhere for work. We've got razors and snowmobiles and all that stuff. We love it up here. Dude, last year they refunded us — there was a budget surplus in Montana. Normally the government would be like, oh good, we have extra money, we'll spend it on something else. Not Montana. They sent everybody a check for the surplus. And they did the same with property tax.

JD Welsh

I've heard nothing but good things about Montana. Maybe we should cut that part out so nobody else comes up there.

Scott Loescher

Ha, I live in the Bitterroot Valley. That's the same place they filmed Yellowstone. The ranch they filmed Yellowstone on, yeah, it's about 30 miles south of here.

JD Welsh

Oh really?

Scott Loescher

Yeah. There's a former Delta Command Sergeant Major that lives half a mile down the road from me. There's a former CCT guy who lives about 10 miles south of me. There's a bunch of dudes. We have our own little retired military circle. These dudes have plans on how to block off the valley and survive.

JD Welsh

Just in case the world goes sideways.

Scott Loescher

Yeah, you never know what could happen. I'm not a prepper or anything like that, but I do know how to survive. And I'm in a good spot to do that.

So, are you familiar with TRAX? So it's a TDL (Tactical Data Link) data translation layer between Link-16, VMF, and SADL. It's the data layer between disparate systems that allows them to talk to each other.

JD Welsh

And which is 100% necessary. That's been the biggest complaint — why are we all using these different systems? How do we get them to talk?

Scott Loescher

Yeah. TRAX sits in the middle and builds that data layer. And the reason I bring that up is I still have my TS clearance. I still get insight into what's going on. There's a lot of things going on that are outside of our control that our adversaries are working against us on.

JD Welsh

Yeah, there are a lot of people out there that would love nothing more than to see the US fall or not have the influence that we have.

Scott Loescher

So yeah, absolutely. That kind of drives living here as well. It's a good place, a safe place.

Closing

JD Welsh

This is great. I can't thank you enough for doing this, man. I really appreciate you taking the time to sit down and tell these stories. You and I have interacted, we know each other, but like I said, there are holes in these stories that you filled in today. I appreciate it. This is really great.

Scott Loescher

I appreciate you having me on too. This is like the first time that I've sat down and gone through a story like that — tell the whole thing from beginning to end. And I'm sure there are things that I left out, but to go through the whole chronological thing of what makes me, me right now. Because my military service is absolutely what makes me, me right now.

JD Welsh

You know, and it's like that for a lot of guys, and that's kind of why I started this thing. I wanted people to have an outlet or an opportunity to capture that whole story, so other guys could hear it, or their family, or whoever. It's just such a great part of history. What you've done — you yourself, not just the career field, but you along with the other guys that have been on here — you guys are part of history. And I say this all the time: if it wasn't for TACPs, there are a lot of wars that wouldn't have been won at all, or at the very least would have been a lot harder to win without guys like us.

Scott Loescher

When you have free thinkers that have the kind of firepower behind them, that are able to get to a successful mission execution that without us would not have…

JD Welsh

Yeah, exactly. It would have been a hell of a lot tougher. You'd have lost a lot more guys. And I think it's important for people to know the kind of value and the kind of effort and the kinds of things that guys like you have done. You guys are heroes. And that's not hyperbole. It's the truth.

Scott Loescher

Have you seen Ethan Brown's new book?

JD Welsh

Not yet. I want to though. Did you have any input on that?

Scott Loescher

Oh yeah, definitely. So the first one's out, Visual Friendly, Tally, Target. I'm in that one. Zach and Tommy Case, right? And then I talked to Ethan a couple of weeks ago. He's like, dude, I'm taking your Desert Storm story and we're starting off Book Two with your Desert Storm story. So I guess I'll be in there too.

JD Welsh

I talked to him a little bit ago when he was putting out all that info, and I'm trying to get him on here. I'd love for him to talk about it and get the word out about it. And there's also the Steve Call book — what's that one called? Danger Close or something like that. I'd love to have him on to talk about that book. Well, thanks again for coming on, man, I really appreciate it. This is awesome.

Scott Loescher

I appreciate you having me on, dude.

JD Welsh

All right, brother. All right, man. Thank you, I appreciate it.

Scott Loescher

Talk to you later.

V. RATER'S COMMENTS

- Created both Close Air Support (CAS) and Joint Air Attack Team (JAAT) slides and lesson plans
  -- Lesson plans were used in briefing the Army Aviation unit commanders, aerial observers, and S-3 staff on the use and integration of CAS/JAAT
  -- Briefing became an integral part of the 4th Brigade's Standard Operating Procedures
- Received the Air Force Achievement Medal for the self-help renovation of OL-U's motorbays
  -- Created a safer and better organized working environment plus saved the Air Force over $10,000
  -- Provided with a wartime readiness material storage area which greatly reduced the load-out time for equipment during mobility operations and deployments
- Completely set up the unit's new computer system to include uploading all programs, associated menus, hardware and worldwide modem communication capabilities
  -- His efforts greatly reduced the number of administrative trips and lost man hours driving to geographically separated support facilities
  -- Increased unit efficiency through application of computer technology to administrative tasks

V. RATER'S COMMENTS

- The definition of an NCO--expects, demands, and delivers excellence from himself and subordinates
- Deployed as BALO for 3-66 Armored Battalion supporting 4ID(M) during Operation IRAQI FREEDOM
  -- Personally took part in capture of 39 looters at Iraqi ammunition supply point; his quick thinking and decisiveness prevented theft and future use of rocket propelled grenades, anti-tank mines and ammunition
  -- Gets results when others can't--completed all redeployment requirements for three 4ID(M) TACP vehicles in less than five hours; previous attempts had been ongoing for two weeks with little progress
- Increased unit combat capabilities--coordinated with group staff to finalize required equipment list and ensure all necessary equipment was procured prior to leaving--issued combat gear to deploying airmen
- Lead TAC trainer to Goldwater Range--three critically needed ETACs regained CAS control currency
- Highly involved in community--led 4-H group in building float for Kansas Free Fair--kids won first place
  -- Led discussion with children about military life--increased community awareness of operations in Iraq
- Singular efforts as Stan/Eval NCO ensured deploying personnel's evaluations/CAS controls were current
- Superlative leader and ETAC--has proven himself in training and combat--promote at earliest opportunity

- Extraordinary NCO; outstanding performance is his standard; top field ETAC, warrior and evaluator
- Took part in numerous raids on former Iraqi regime leadership targets--one raid in conjunction with a Task Force 20 operation resulted in the capture of high value target number four and eight million dollars
- Provided invaluable assistance to unit mobility NCO; ensured 100% of annual and ancillary training and medical requirements were met prior to deployment; greatly increased squadron combat effectiveness
- This gifted leader exemplifies the best in the TACP career field; excels at all--promote ahead of peers!

V. RATER'S COMMENTS

A1C Loescher performed his duties as a tactical air command and control specialist in an outstanding manner. His skills and system knowledge ensured that nine MRC-107 communication centrals were mission ready for deployment to Saudi Arabia in support of DESERT SHIELD/ STORM. During DESERT STORM, A1C Loescher supported the 2d Brigade tactical operations center (TAC). This is a very demanding position in that he and the ALO work directly for the brigade command and are always the most forward element on the battlefield. On 20, 24, and 25 February, with the brigade TAC deep inside Iraq, A1C Loescher's knowledge and cool-headedness ensured that close air support aircraft arrived in less than five minutes while the brigade was under intense fire from Iraq artillery positions. A1C Loescher actions saved countless lives by ensuring the destruction of the Iraqi artillery positions. Promote.

Performance feedback was accomplished consistent with the direction in AFR 39-62 (if not accomplished, state the reason).

V. RATER'S COMMENTS

A1C Loescher is a steady performer who accomplishes all of his assigned tasks in a conscientious manner. During CAVALRY THUNDER II, a local field exercise, and AIR WARRIOR 89-03, a national training center rotation, he demonstrated he was a valuable asset to the unit. He used his job knowledge and expertise to pass vital, time critical information to the battalion air liaison officer (ALO), ensuring the success of the close air support missions. A1C Loescher has demonstrated financial irresponsibility on several occasions, but he has responded positively to counseling. A vast improvement has been seen. He was selected as unit airman of the month three times. His education strengths include a score of 92% on his end of course test and being currently enrolled with the Community College of the Air Force. Retain, but not recommended for promotion at this time.

Performance feedback was accomplished consistent with the direction in AFR 39-62 (if not accomplished, state the reason).

INSTRUCTIONS

Reports written (rater) by a senior rater will not be indorsed. Also, reports written by the Chief Master Sergeant of the Air Force (CMSAF) will not be indorsed.

Reports written (rater) by colonels or civilians (GM-15 or higher) do not require an indorser; however, indorsement is permitted unless prohibited by the instruction above.

When the rater's rater is not at least a MSgt or civilian (GS-07 or higher), the indorser is the next official in the rating chain serving in the grade of MSgt or higher, or a civilian in the grade of GS-07 or higher.

When the final evaluator (rater or indorser) is not an Air Force officer or a DAF civilian, an Air Force advisor review is required.

No comment is needed in the first item under Section V if the performance feedback was provided to the ratee; otherwise, comments must be made to state why feedback was not provided.

V. RATER'S COMMENTS

- Extremely knowledgeable and highly motivated NCO who always demonstrates excellence in all he does
- The model Ground Forward Air Controller (GFAC)--vital to training entry level, inexperienced BnALOs
- Hard charging efforts during operations with Korean GFACs cultivated a vast increase in combined CAS effectiveness--his communication skills and use of standard terminology broke through language barriers
- Handpicked to control over 25 CAS missions during the 51 FW December 1997 turkey shoot competition
  -- Expertly provided scores for all bombs while the Pilsung range electronic scoring system was down
- Coordinated visits of Korea based ground laser designation teams to Osan Air Base and Kooni range
  -- Greatly improving the effectiveness of laser designation, rapid target identification and timely CAS
- Meticulously inventoried all BnALO equipment--identifying and rapidly filling critical shortfalls
  -- Utilized unique sources to acquire equipment necessary for BnALOs to use while with Army Battalions
- Spearheaded an effort making sure 25 FS operations personnel were current on small arms training
  -- Secured the use of other US small arms ranges overcoming the obstacle of the Osan AB range closure
- Continuously surpasses expectations--unbounded potential, he is definitely ready for immediate promotion

V. RATER'S COMMENTS

- My number one NCO--highly motivated and extremely capable enlisted terminal attack controller (ETAC)
- Dedicated efforts as the Unit Deployment Manager were responsible for the 100% on-time deployment of BnALOs during five consecutive wing initial response readiness exercises despite high personnel turnover
- Creatively initiated a squadron incentive program by taking top performers out to Kooni Range to watch squadron A-10s employ ordnance--gave support personnel a front row seat to see the results of their work
- Extensive knowledge of CAS procedures allowed him to expertly train Army laser designation teams on emergency CAS procedures--ensured the Army could get CAS in the absence of an Air Force controller
- Regularly controls aircraft in close proximity to the DMZ--trains inexperienced BnALOs in the same area
- Meticulous attention to detail with shop vehicles identified and corrected several safety problems on the AN/MRC-144 systems, including brakes and transmission--replaced truck with more capable blazer
- Expertly managed budget to acquire several new items for BnALOs, including combat assault backpacks
- Inventoried all BnALO equipment on a regular basis to ensure BnALOs had all needed combat equipment
- An outstanding performer--the linchpin to the entire shop--definitely ready for immediate promotion

THE AIR FORCE ACHIEVEMENT MEDAL

HAS BEEN AWARDED TO

SENIOR AIRMAN SCOTT C. LOESCHER [redacted]

FOR

OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENT

15 JULY 1993 TO 15 OCTOBER 1993

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Senior Airman Scott C. Loescher distinguished himself by outstanding achievement as a Tactical Air Command and Control Specialist, Operating Location Uniform, Detachment 2, 4th Air Support Operations Group, Katterbach Army Installation, Germany. With great enthusiasm, Airman Loescher embarked on a top-to-bottom remodeling project of the unit's decrepit motor bay facility. During this period, he eagerly worked long hours and sacrificed off-duty time aiding in the complete restoration of the motor bay's floor and walls and the erection of a badly needed storage mezzanine. Airman Loescher's untiring efforts saved the government approximately $10,000 in contract labor costs and significantly enhanced the appearance and quality of the unit's daily working environment.

(FIRST OAK LEAF CLUSTER)
HAS BEEN AWARDED TO

STAFF SERGEANT SCOTT C. LO[redacted]

FOR

MERITORIOUS SERVICE
9 NOVEMBER 1997 TO 5 NOVEMBER 1998

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Staff Sergeant Scott C. Loescher distinguished himself by meritorious service as Tactical Air Command and Control Craftsman, 25th Fighter Squadron, 51st Operations Group, 51st Fighter Wing, Osan Air Base, Republic of Korea. During this period, Sergeant Loescher enhanced the combined warfighting capabilities of the United States and the Republic of Korea through the creation of a field program designed to fill a joint training requirement shortfall. This prevented a potentially serious deficit in the squadron pool of battalion air liaison officers. His stellar initiative and diligent efforts launched the deployment management system, producing 100 percent on-time deployment for eight initial response readiness exercises. Sergeant Loescher's hard-charging efforts during operations with ground forward air controllers cultivated a vast increase in combined close air support effectiveness, as he assigned and controlled aircraft in close proximity to the Korean Demilitarized Zone.

TO

SCOTT C. LOESCHER [redacted]

Technical Sergeant Scott C. Loescher distinguished himself by meritorious achievement as Enlisted Battalion Air Liaison Officer, 1st Expeditionary Air Support Operations Squadron, 3d Expeditionary Air Support Operations Group, while engaged in ground operations against the enemy at Baghdad, Iraq, from 12 May 2004 to 8 July 2004. During this period, while exposed to extreme danger from hostile mortar and rocket attacks, Sergeant Loescher superbly controlled air strikes throughout the 1st Armored Division area of responsibility virtually eliminating the threat of insurgent hostilities in one portion of the region. Working with another controller, he personally called in attacks on enemy fighting positions, thus protecting coalition forces from ambush and killing eighty enemy militia, destroying four vehicles and three barricaded buildings. As a result of these controls, Muqtada's militia threw down their arms and fled the city. Sergeant Loescher's actions undoubtedly saved friendly forces from further casualties. On a separate occasion, he acted as the lead controller during Operation STRIKER TORNADO, a simultaneous raid on twenty-one separate high-value enemy personnel, by controlling air coverage throughout the operation. Additionally, while with the 2d Brigade Combat Team, Sergeant Loescher controlled twenty-five missions resulting in the capture of sixteen enemy prisoners and the discovery of several large weapons caches. Finally, he accounted for all equipment after the squadron's fourteen-month deployment. The exemplary leadership, personal endeavor, and devotion to duty displayed by Sergeant Loescher in this responsible position reflect great credit upon himself and the United States Air Force.

SCOTT C. LOESCHER [redacted]

Senior Master Sergeant Scott C. Loescher distinguished himself by meritorious achievement as Superintendent, 82d Expeditionary Air Support Operations Squadron, 368th Expeditionary Air Support Operations Group, while engaged in ground operations against the enemy at Camp Victory, Baghdad, Iraq from 17 February 2010 to 20 August 2010. During this period, Sergeant Loescher displayed exceptional leadership of three detachments, made up of over 80 Battlefield Airmen, operating across the United States Forces-Iraq area of operations at 16 locations. Under his oversight, the squadron executed over 1873 air support requests, including 9 troops-in-contact situations, and 1576 sorties, providing close air support for over 100,000 ground personnel. He also led the squadron's responsible drawdown of forces resulting in the reduction of support personnel by over two thirds and the reduction of joint terminal attack controllers from 63 to 44. His expert management minimized the stress on a critically manned career field while maintaining full mission capability and 100 percent command and control coverage across Iraq. In conjunction with the personnel reduction, Sergeant Loescher created a standardized equipment list for 16 tactical air control party clearing the way for the turn-in of 13 vehicles and 4.1 million dollars worth of excess equipment. Finally, he identified, planned and organized the transfer of 9.6 million dollars worth of mine resistant ambush protected vehicles to CONUS-based squadrons in order to minimize additional pre-deployment travel for driver's training and allow airmen to develop crucial experience and expertise with these weapon systems prior to combat. The exemplary leadership, personal endeavor, and devotion to duty displayed by Sergeant Loescher in this responsible position reflect great credit upon himself and the United States Air Force.

Staff Sergeant Scott C. Loescher distinguished himself by meritorious service as Noncommissioned Officer in Charge, A-Flight Tactical Air Control Party, 17th Air Support Operations Squadron, Fort Benning Army Installation, Georgia, from 24 July 1995 to 2 October 1997. During this period, the outstanding professional skill, leadership, and ceaseless efforts of Sergeant Loescher resulted in major contributions to the effectiveness and success of Air Force and Army programs. As a result of Sergeant Loescher's exceptionally high degree of military and professional excellence, he was selected above senior noncommissioned officers to command A-Flight Tactical Air Control Party and occupy the critical position of Noncommissioned Officer in Charge of Close Air Support in the Fire Support Element of the 3d Brigade Combat Team, 3d Infantry Division. An accomplished leader, he developed and instituted a benchmark computer program to track currencies, ensuring 100 percent combat effectiveness for the unit. He was handpicked as the number one candidate to deploy in support of the All Services Identification and Evaluation Team to test marking procedures in fratricide prevention, an event witness by the Air Force Chief of Staff and the Undersecretary of Defense. As squadron computer manager, he was instrumental in the purchase and upgrade of over 20,000 dollars in new hardware and software which permit integration into a wide area network and brings the squadron to United States Air Force and Air Combat Command standards. His personal leadership ensured the brigade tactical air control party was trained, equipped and prepared for exercises and contingency operations. An accomplished terminal attack control instructor, Sergeant Loescher provided unfamiliar range training and night control currency to five terminal attack controllers while simultaneously providing realistic close air support training to the 27th Fighter Wing for their Operational Readiness Exercise. As squadron Standardization and Evaluation Noncommissioned Officer in Charge, he eliminated all discrepancies in 36 records in preparation for three higher headquarters inspections, and was recognized as a "Superior Performer" on all three occasions. His diligence proved vital to the squadron's rare 100 percent "compliance" rating during the 2002 Air Combat Command Unit Compliance Inspection and led to the standardization and evaluation program's "Excellent" rating during two Eighth Air Force formal visits. The distinctive accomplishments of Sergeant Loescher reflect credit upon himself and the United States Air Force.

SCOTT C. LOESCHER [redacted]

Chief Master Sergeant Scott C. Loescher distinguished himself by exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service to the United States as Command Chief, 386th Air Expeditionary Wing, Ali Al Salem Air Base, Kuwait from 12 June 2016 to 12 June 2017. During this period, the exemplary ability, diligence, and devotion to duty of Chief Loescher were instrumental factors in the resolution of many complex problems of major importance to the Air Force. His focused leadership empowered a rotational force of 11,700 Airmen force across six groups, 20 squadrons and 13 wing staff agencies providing accountability and support for personnel spread across seven countries. Setting the priority of ensuring decisive airpower be brought to the Islamic State of Iraq and Syria, his leadership enabled 52 Air Force, coalition, and Special Operations Command aircraft consisting of 19 different types to execute over 10,600 intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance, tactical and strategic airlift, precision strike, electronic attack, and air refueling sorties supporting Operation INHERENT RESOLVE. These air assets operated over 40,300 flying hours and were responsible for moving over 227,000 short tons of cargo, delivering over 400,000 passengers, providing over 24,000 hours of full motion video coverage, delivering 25 million pounds of fuel and conducting over 330 airstrikes resulting in 4,215 enemies killed in action. As an advisor to the commander, Chief Loescher was extremely effective at maintaining an operational focus while keeping an eye on the Airmen. He created the lodging and tent managers program for over 1,200 residents in tent city, providing much needed oversight, advocacy and visibility on key quality of life issues. Chief Loescher was also successful in enriching Airmen's professional development by expanding the Rock University development program by including coalition and joint partners, Resiliency Training Assistant courses, and Victim's Advocate training courses. Finally, he shepherded the wing's first-ever headquarters inspector general self-assessment program review. His groups and squadrons were graded as one of the best self-assessments seen in Air Combat Command in the past year. The superior initiative, outstanding leadership, and personal endeavor displayed by Chief Loescher reflect great credit upon himself and the United States Air Force.

During this period, the outstanding professional skill, leadership, and ceaseless efforts of Sergeant Loescher resulted in major contributions to the effectiveness and success in establishing the newest and programmed largest Air Support Operations Squadron while simultaneously maintaining support to the 1st Armored Division. Sergeant Loescher maintained oversight of the unit's 454,000 dollar annual operating budget while he managed a 50 percent growth in squadron personnel. He directed the acquisition of 123 weapons and 54 radios, set-up equipment accounts, and kept the squadron on-track to become fully mission-capable. He expertly integrated the Army Center for Enhanced Performance into the Joint Terminal Attack Controller program, resulting in the squadron being named the "pilot unit" by the Chief Master Sergeant of the Air Force. Additionally, Sergeant Loescher led the standup of seven squadron functional offices. This effort finalized the process to establish a fully functional squadron, enabling the deployment of 66 squadron personnel in support of 24 combat units. Ever the professional, Sergeant Loescher earned the "Distinguish Graduate" award at the Senior Noncommissioned Officer Academy. Finally, his accomplishments led him to being named the senior noncommissioned officer of the year for the 3rd Air Support Operations Group. CHIEF MASTER SERGEANT SCOTT L. LOESCHE [redacted]

FOR

MERITORIOUS SERVICE
2 JULY 2013 TO 13 FEBRUARY 2015

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Chief Master Sergeant Scott C. Loescher distinguished himself in the performance of outstanding service to the United States as Superintendent, 7th Air Support Operations Squadron, Fort Bliss Army Installation, Texas. During this period, the outstanding professional skills, leadership and determination of Chief Loescher resulted in major contributions to the effectiveness and success of the 1st Armored Division and the 7th Air Support Operations Squadron. As the senior enlisted advisor to the commander, he directed daily operations for over 170 assigned Airmen in the Combat Air Force's largest Air Support Operations Squadron. Most notably, Chief Loescher led the squadron's addition and expansion of its Air Support Operations Center mission. Mitigating a 377,000 dollar Unit Tasking Code equipment short fall, he ensured the squadron's Joint Air-Ground Integration Cell became the model for Air Combat Command. Chief Loescher also oversaw the expansion of a multitude of cutting edge joint fires training initiatives. He laid the ground work for the squadron to host the Air Force Weapons School during exercise HUSTLER TROUGH facilitating the development of new joint fires procedures for the entire Combat Air Force. Finally, Chief Loescher ensured the squadron led the Tactical Air Control Party community by lashing Joint Terminal Attack Controllers to two of the Air Force's newest attack platforms, the F-35 and A-29. The singularly distinctive accomplishments of Chief Loescher reflect great credit upon himself and the United States Air Force.

SPECIAL ORDER
G-16231

3 MAY 17

By direction of the President for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services to the United States, CHIEF MASTER SERGEANT SCOTT C. LOESCHER, [redacted] is awarded the LEGION OF MERIT, during the period of 12 June 2016 to 12 June 2017.

Chief Master Sergeant Scott C. Loescher distinguished himself by exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service to the United States as Command Chief, 386th Air Expeditionary Wing, Ali Al Salem Air Base, Kuwait from 12 June 2016 to 12 June 2017. During this period, the exemplary ability, diligence, and devotion to duty of Chief Loescher were instrumental factors in the resolution of many complex problems of major importance to the Air Force. His focused leadership empowered a rotational force of 11,700 Airmen force across six groups, 20 squadrons and 13 wing staff agencies providing accountability and support for personnel spread across seven countries. Setting the priority of ensuring decisive airpower be brought to the Islamic State of Iraq and Syria, his leadership enabled 52 Air Force, coalition, and Special Operations Command aircraft consisting of 19 different types to execute over 10,600 intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance, tactical and strategic airlift, precision strike, electronic attack, and air refueling sorties supporting Operation INHERENT RESOLVE. These air assets operated over 40,300 flying hours and were responsible for moving over 227,000 short tons of cargo, delivering over 400,000 passengers, providing over 24,000 hours of full motion video coverage, delivering 25 million pounds of fuel and conducting over 330 airstrikes resulting in 4,215 enemies killed in action. As an advisor to the commander, Chief Loescher was extremely effective at maintaining an operational focus while keeping an eye on the Airmen. He created the lodging and tent managers program for over 1,200 residents in tent city, providing much needed oversight, advocacy and visibility on key quality of life issues. Chief Loescher was also successful in enriching Airmen's professional development by expanding the Rock University development program by including coalition and joint partners, Resiliency Training Assistant courses, and Victim's Advocate training courses. Finally, he shepherded the wing's first-ever headquarters inspector general self-assessment program review. His groups and squadrons were graded as one of the best self-assessments seen in Air Combat Command in the past year. The superior initiative, outstanding leadership, and personal endeavor displayed by Chief Loescher reflect great credit upon himself and the United States Air Force.
